 "Ladies and Gentleman, wave goodbye we are leaving port!" the captain said over the megaphone. I held Relena close to me and waved goodbye to Quatre and Trowa who were going to be taking care of our son while we were on the cruise.

 "This is so relaxing." I said. We were on the deck sun-tanning with music playing. "Another martini sir?" the waiter asked. I nodded as I took it off the tray and handed him 5 bucks. A tip I slowly sipped it. This was so relaxing. I looked to my left at the ocean at some dolphins jumping up out of the water. Suddenly I felt a low rumble and the boat spun to the left. I jumped up immediately and ran to the main deck. Everyone there was dead! The captain had fallen on the wheel and that had caused the turn. I grabbed the wheel and steadied it as Relena lowered the anchor. Suddenly, Duo ran in. He and Hilde had also come on the same boat. "This guy on the radio in Florida said a hurricane was starting, and then it went dead." he yelled. I nodded then another explosion rocked the ship. Hilde ran into the room next to Duo. "This whole fucking ship is rigged with explosives, we've got terrorists!" she yelled. "God dammit, why can't I ever have a peaceful vacation?" I asked myself as I turned on the speaker, "Ladies and gentleman, please remain calm. We've had some malfunctions." A lady ran up and whispered something in Relena's ear. "Heero!" Relena said turning to me, "There's enough C4 on this ship to leave a extremely large hole in the Earth." "SHIT!" I yelled over the loudspeaker. "Uh!" Heero, the speaker's still on." Duo said. "SHIT!" I yelled again turning it off. "Okay, Duo, you're the bomb specialist so don't kill us trying to defuse 'em." I said. "Okay!" Duo yelled running down to the lower decks. "Hilde you have to steer us to the nearest island." I said, "Relena, you try to keep the people calm, I'm gonna go see if the terrorists are still onboard." Hilde handed me a gun. "For some reason, I figured we'd need it."

Hilde said. I took the gun and ran down to the cabins.
